The Artist's Hand

Inspired by Spirit, nature, and the expressive power of color and texture, every detail of Peace Waters artwork is touched by the Artist's hand. When we view original artwork, something stirs within us, awakens us, and beckons us to linger. This is the gift of art — why we create and share — enhancing life and home.

Inspired by Spirit and Nature

Shima Shanti works in Encaustic — the ancient art form created from translucent layers of beeswax mixed with pigment and fused with heat. Beeswax and its forgiving, playful, and independent qualities inspire Shima's free spirit and her eye for beauty. Her conventional upbringing and contrasting spiritual and existential understanding are revealed in realistic and mystical harmony in the flow and fusion of molten beeswax. Similar to life, layers of beeswax and moments in time fuse one upon the other, revealing life's journey.

General Delivery

Recall a gentler time not long ago now blurred by freeways and commerce. Look closer. The enduring Missions stand faithful. The perpetual tides ebb and flow. The National Parks — their rugged peaks, crystal lakes, and languid streams — call us back to nature. General Delivery artworks are encaustic collage designed from vintage postcards.

Glimpse of Spirit

Ethereal impressions caught in a sideways glance.
Rainbows on the periphery. Light dancing on waves above the inky depths of the unknown.

Walking on Water

The marvel of birds taking flight lifts one's soul to possibilities and transformation. The simple act of our feathered friends walking on water suggests the miraculous.

In Synergy with Nature

The weathered patina and texture of 100-year-old vintage wood is integral to each Peace Waters work of art. Our wood is sourced worldwide for quality, consistency, and cost. Like any scarce commodity, color, dimension, and species may vary according to availability. Currently most of our vintage wood is reclaimed oak barn siding that is 100-150 years old. It is rare, one-of-a-kind, and precious because of time.

The Details

Encaustic — "to burn in" — is the 5,000-year-old ancient art form of painting with beeswax then fusing with heat. Shima Shanti's encaustic works combine photography, collage, and assemblage. This labor-intensive technique begins with Shima's interpretation of subtle imagery in a photograph. Then layers of beeswax, demar resin (a tree sap from Indonesia), and pigments are painted with carefree brush strokes. Lastly, the surface is scraped, textured, and polished to a high gloss, revealing the ethereal, translucent, and misty qualities unique to beeswax. The effects are contemporary, evocative, and timeless.

One of a Kind

Peace Waters Fine Art is original and one-of-a-kind. Starting with a photo image, each artwork is hand-crafted. While similar, no two artworks are alike. Special requests are welcome and considered. Please contact your sales representative.

Fulfillment

The creation of each artwork begins at the time of your order. Please anticipate two to four weeks for delivery.

Returns

If you are not satisfied for any reason other than the artwork's unique variation, we offer a ten-day exchange. Please contact your sales representative for special details.

Shipping Charges

By customer; including exchanges.
